Mandapa “Arak Sandhikala” Story

On a sleepy afternoon in a sleepy village in Bali, a group of elderly men gathered and sat in a circle on a battered pandan leaf mat and chatted intimately about life's small things, from the upcoming harvest to local politicians competing for the public's votes.

A man passed around the “liquid glue” that strengthened their bond – clear and powerful local liquor known as arak. They then took turns sipping the liquor from a shared mug. When they had exhausted the conversation, they began singing. Folk songs, drinking songs and made-up songs flowed from their lips as they tried to exhaust the warung's liquor stock. In the process, they sampled the spicy pork sate, the delicious lawar (shredded vegetables and minced meat) and fried nuts.

Arak Sandhikala, spending the evening with your pals having fun over a large quantity of arak, is still one of the most favorite pastimes for Balinese people. Be part of this Sekeha (group) and join is at the “Mandapa Sandhikala”!
